

What's Next? | Acts 28:11-28:31 2021 Fall #9

Tips: Some groups have found eating a full meal together to take too much time and have switched to light snacks. They have found keeping social time short on the front end and then returning to it at the end to be helpful in maximizing time together. Building in time at the end works for folks who might have to leave and for deeper conversation with those who have warmed up through the meeting.

Announcements: Be thinking and talking with your group about the Winter quarter. If you are not planning to offer your group again please let me know as soon as possible so we can transition the group well. "The end of a thing is more important than its beginning." Ecc. 7:8 Folks should be encouraged to stay in a group, whether yours or another. There are good reasons for making a switch, so do not take it personally. Now is a good time to ask your groups if they are open to adding new members next quarter and pray about who God might want to add. Make personal invitations.

Administration: We are coming to the end of the quarter. Most groups will end the week of Thanksgiving and have some sort of social or service meeting in December. Toolkits will not be sent during the month of December, but questions for study and discussion will still be printed in the bulletin. Groups will start back in January on the week of the 16th. See the groups calendar on the website.
